PCB production

Aisler, OSHPark and JLC are notes and recommendations from CCI's Jen Sykes, who says: "Nowadays I tend to use JLC if its not super time sensitive and Aisler if it is. I may use OSH Park if I needed surface mount assembly of parts depending on my design and part manufacture location."

Supplier	Material	Website	Note
Aisler	PCB	https://aisler.net/	Germany based and good at being contactable regarding design. Have upgraded their interface and also have many more options for production now so you can do different levels of manufacturing. Good for low number , small runs and quick turn arounds.

Supplier	Material	Website	Note
JLC PCB	PCB	https://jlcpcb.com/	Very cheap, pretty fast turn around even for worldwide shipping. Roughly 2 weeks sometimes much faster (5 days) if its a simple design. Communication sometimes tricky.
PCBtrain	PCB	http://www.pcbtrain.co.uk	Super fast turnaround, but a bit pricey
PCBcart	PCB	http://www.pcbcart.com
SEED	PCB	http://www.seedstudio.com	Very slow, but crazy cheap and high quality PCB production and assembly.
OSHPark	PCB	https://oshpark.com/	US based, now make flex PCBs. Good if you were needing a design assembled + populated with parts mainly manufactured in the US.
Ragworm	PCB	https://ragworm.eu/
